

The Journal and Courier

NEW HAVEN, CONN.

THE OLDEST DAILY PAPER PUBLISHED IN CONNECTICUT.

DELIVERED BY CARRIERS IN THE CITY, 15 CENTS A WEEK, 40 CENTS A MONTH, $1 FOR SIX MONTHS, $3 A YEAR. THE SAME TERMS BY MAIL.

THE WEEKLY JOURNAL, Issued Thursdays, One Dollar a Year.

THE CARRINGTON PUBLISHING CO. OFFICE 400 STATE STREET.

Advertising Rates.

Situations, Vacancies, and other small advertisements, one cent a word each line (seven times). Five cents a word for a full week (seven times). Display advertisements—Per inch, one insertion, $1.25; each subsequent insertion, 40 cents; one week, $1.25; one month, $3.00; one year, $24.00.

Obituary notices, in prose or verse, 15 cents per line. Notices of births, marriages, deaths and funerals, 50 cents each. Local notices, 10 cents per line.

Yearly advertisements are limited to their own immediate business and are not to be objectionable, and their contracts do not include. Wanting, To Let, For Sale, etc.

Discounts—On two inches or more, one month and over, 10 per cent; on four inches or more, one month and over, 15 per cent.

Notice.

We cannot accept anonymous or return rejected communications. In all cases the name of the writer will be required, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

M. Rousseau, the new governor of the French possessions in Indo-China, is a radical dress reformer and has issued orders that all ladies attending government balls shall wear high necked gowns. He has been nicknamed "Mr. Modesty." No wonder.

An ornithologist has been investigating the question of what time in summer the commonest small birds wake up and sing. He states that the green finch is the earliest riser, and it pipes as early as 1:30 in the morning, the blackcap beginning at about 2:30. It is nearly 4 o'clock and the sun is well above the horizon before the first real songster appears in the shape of a black bird.

The Rev. Ralph William Tollemache-Tollemache, who died in England a few days ago, had some names himself, but he was chiefly remarkable for his embarrassing generosity to his children, in the matter of names. One of his daughters is called Lyona Decima Veronica Esyth Undine Cysa Hylda Rowena Adele Thyra Ursula Ysabel Blanche Lellias Dysart Plantagenet Tollemache-Tollemache.

The first woman who succeeded in obtaining official permission to ride a bicycle in the streets of St. Petersburg managed to fall from her wheel a fortnight later, and injured herself so badly that she had to retire to a hospital for extensive repairs. The police now refuse to issue any bicycle permits to women, and thus the sport cannot be practiced by them in or near the Russian capital without risking and usually encountering summary arrest and severe penalties.

Bishop Wilmer, of Alabama, says that one of his friends lost a dearly beloved wife, and, in his sorrow, caused these words to be inscribed on her tombstone: "The light of mine eyes has gone out." The bereaved married within a year. Shortly afterward the Bishop was walking through the graveyard with another gentleman. When they arrived at the tomb the latter asked the bishop what he would say of the present state of affairs, in view of the words on the tombstone. "I think," said the bishop, "the words 'But I have struck another match' should be added."

Gold strikes of wonderful richness are reported to have been made in several parts of British Columbia in the last week or two. At Elburn, a few miles from Vancouver, a man boring for water in a lot adjoining the Methodist church struck quantities of flake gold 200 feet below the surface. He galloped into Westminster and staked his claim, and returned to prospect. His find ran nearly $21 an ounce. It is believed he struck the bed of an old river, and prospects are being made all over the neighborhood. Big strikes are reported from Cariboo county and from South Kootenai, twenty-five miles of excellent promise having been recently opened in the latter region.

Nathan Straus reports that he has sold or given away 536,379 bottles of sterilized milk at his various depots in New York in the season just closed, and in addition has disposed of 512,430 glasses of pure milk in the same way. It is impossible, he says, to sell sterilized milk at a cent a bottle, its price, without loss, so that his enterprise is a philanthropic one, for which he deserves full credit. He foresees the growth of the demand for this health-giving food for the children of the poor, until it shall exceed his ability to supply, but he declares his purpose to keep open his depots until stronger hands take the enterprise from him.

The tin plate industry appears to be still alive. The report of Special Treasury Agent Ayer on the tin plate industry in the United States for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1895, states that the production of commercial tin and tin plates was 135,891,673 pounds, against 133,223,467 pounds for the preceding year—an increase of about 2 per cent. Of this 130,576,934 pounds, or about 83 per cent., were made from sheets rolled in the United States, against about 62 per cent. made from such sheets during the preceding year. Forty-eight firms were producing during the last quarter of the fiscal year, against forty for the same period of 1894. The number of rolling-mills for rolling black plates completed on June 30, 1895, was 144, against 71 on the corresponding date of 1894. The total imports during the fiscal year were 618,968,401 pounds; total exports for the same period, 128,777,800 pounds, showing net imports 490,190,601 pounds. The approximate consumption in the United States was 680,968,674 pounds.

LIBERTY WITH ONIONS.

"Give me liberty or give me death," said Patrick Henry, and in so saying gave forceful expression to one of the noblest longings of the human heart. The same longing that moved Patrick Henry to the utterance of his immortal words has moved some of the children of Pecatonica, Illinois, to eat even more onions than they have been in the habit of eating, and has moved the parents of the children to furnish the extra onions and heartily uphold their children in eating them. The need of eating more onions in support of Liberty in Pecatonica sprang from the action of the school-ma'am of the hamlet, who is evidently very nice, and also more nice than wise. She does not eat onions herself, at least when her beau is likely to come to see her, and so she thinks that her scholars ought not to.

The other day she requested that no scholar should breakfast on onions before coming to school. This was enough for the young ones. They felt attacked in their personal liberty, just as a man does when he is requested not to drink rum, and just as a woman does when she is requested to hold her tongue. They developed a surprising appetite and capacity for onions. When the teacher saw what their idea was she made up her mind that Liberty and Onions should not be synonymous in her ballistics. She whipped the children, and in so doing struck simultaneously the children, Liberty and the parents of the children. She soon discovered that the men and women of Pecatonica were as Liberty and onion-loving as their children. They have notified her that she is a tyrant who is out of place in a free community, and they are going to bring her into court and teach her that the teacher of their free children must not wantonly attack Liberty.

Although the sacred right of onion-eating is not specifically mentioned in either the Declaration of Independence or the Constitution there is no doubt that it is in both. And it is highly probable that both the Declaration and the Constitution owe much of the breath of Liberty that is in them to onion-eaters. The Pecatonica school-ma'am has gone too far, and she will find that though "Give me Liberty with Onions" may not strike her as being a noble utterance the courts will find in it the same grand sentiment that inspired the words of Patrick Henry. She would have done better to tactfully try to show her pupils that though onion-eating in resistance to tyrants may be obedience to God, Liberty can exist and flourish without it.

THE TARIFF FOR REVENUE.

The "tariff for revenue" is still in operation. The receipts of the government for October were, in round numbers, $27,000,000. The deficit was more than $6,000,000. It is now believed by those who believe in "the tariff for revenue" that by January first it will be found that the government will not be behind any in the second quarter of the fiscal year. Those who thus believe don't show a very substantial basis for their belief. They say that the reduced sugar crop in Cuba, together with the difficulties now experienced in carrying on trade with that island, will probably cause an advance in the price of that commodity which will increase the revenue derived from the ad valorem duty. It is also insisted that internal revenue receipts must be larger when the stocks of whiskey, withdrawn under the old tax, have been used up. But, as the Providence Journal points out, it must be remembered that an advance in the price of sugar would naturally mean a decrease in consumption and hence in importation, and that the stocks of whiskey on the market are not known to be yet so reduced as to indicate large withdrawals in the immediate future.

The average outgo from the treasury per month has been during the current fiscal year about $30,000,000, and the largest income in any one month was $29,236,007. That sum was taken in in July, and made the theorists feel good. They argued that if the government income was as good as that in the dull summer season we could expect enough increase when the fall trade began to put an end to monthly deficits altogether. But the increase has not come, though two months of the fall have passed. The August revenue was only $28,952,696, the September revenue dropped to $27,949,678, and the October receipts are found to have been but little more.

Great is "the tariff for revenue" and great are its prophets. They do not look quite as great to some of their deluded followers as they did before their prophecies failed, but they apparently feel as great as ever. It will be interesting to see them in the next campaign showing how a "tariff for revenue" that produces a deficit is a blessing to a country.

FASHION NOTES.

A Boxed Jacket and a Fitted Bodice.

Although jackets fitted throughout are to be had in stores, a majority of the new garments are fitted at the back only, the front being so full as to hang straight from bust to hem. These jackets have the recommendation of appearing entirely new, and the lack of fit at the front does not have the ugly effect it might if the material were not some heavy stuff. Occasional examples are seen that have both back and front "boxed," and it is one of these that shows at the right in to-day's picture. It was found in dark green velvet and was slashed a few inches over the hips to prevent straining as the wearer sat down. Its back was in one piece, and the edges of the fronts turned back to form large revers. A ruche of pleated black chiffon was worn at the neck, as the jacket was slightly open, the garment fastened with three ivory buttons, and its sleeves were bell-shaped at the wrists.

An odd but very neat jacket bodice appears on the other figure in the same picture. It has a short ripple basque and its left side is cut down straight, while the right side hooks over and is decorated with two large steel buttons. The material of all this is iron gray mixed suiting, the jacket edges being piped with white satin. A white satin vest with steel buttons and plain stock collar is worn with it, instead of a stiffened chemise. It is a new wrinkle in jacket effects to have them fitted with a belt on the outside at the back. This makes it a simpler matter than it used to be for the jacket bodice that is to be close at the back and open in front.

Little fur collarettes of distinctly new design are the shoulder-collars cut all around the back, and then narrow and lengthen into long tabs in front. It does seem a hateful and wicked waste of warmth to spend the fur in that way, but it is the only new thing in collars. If you have one of last year's collars, though, you may wear it with serenity, because lots of folks who are buying new this season do not like the tab effect, and so there is still enough demand for the duty, round collar capes of last season to ensure their popularity.

SCORCHED.

"I'm going to be President some day," said Willis, proudly. "Papa said I might,"—Harper's Bazar.

Mistress—I told the cook to hurry the dinner. Master—She seems to have scorched.—Detroit Tribune.

Cook (to mistress)—Now I'm leavin' of yer, I may as well tell yer as the key of the kitchen door fits your storeroom.—Tit-Bits.

George—You would marry the biggest fool in the world if he asked you, wouldn't you? Ethel—Oh, George, that is so sudden.—Tit-Bits.

Blooming (to friend, just back from a Western trip)—Well, what is new in

IN

Response to numerous inquiries WHY Ladies' Gloves do not come in as good qualities as Men's, we would say that we now have Four grades,—identical with our BEST grades of Men's,—at $1.75, $2.00, $2.25 and $2.50.

CHASE & CO.

New Haven House Bldg.

FOR SALE,

All of the Fine Furniture now in stock at

Very Low Prices.

You see we buy in such large quantities that we must move our present stock to make room for holiday goods, which will arrive the last of this month.

Now is the Time to Buy.

LOWEST PRICES.

THE BOWDITCH FURNITURE CO., 100 to 106 Orange Street.

Open Monday and Saturday evenings.

Chicago? Nick Kerbocker (sententious)—Her old families.—Puck.

Feline Amenities.—Female Friend to fair author of "The Woman Who Durstn't"—Now you've had such a success, I suppose your publishers will take any rubbish you choose to write.—Punch.

"Who was it?" asked the pretty school-ma'am, "who said, 'Give me liberty or give me death'?" "Patrick Henry, ma'am," replied a small pupil. "And which did he get?" "Both, ma'am,"—Harper's Bazar.

Husband (admirably)—There's no use trying to disguise the fact; you're smarter than I am, my dear.

Wife (complacently)—The fact, my love, has never been in dispute among those who know us.—Detroit Free Press.

A. D. T. boy 137—"Lass" night I dreamed I wuz in heaven.

A. D. T. boy 713—"Wuz dere any messenger boys dere?"

A. D. T. boy 137—"Nah, not yet; but I wuz told dere us sev'ral on de way.—Truth.

"Do you love me?" he whispered. "Can you doubt it?" she reproachfully demanded.

He followed her meaning glance until it rested upon her sleeves all crushed and shapeless, and was convinced.—Detroit Tribune.

A Powerful Sermon.—Patrick—Phwy didn't ye go to church, sure? Bridget—Oh had gone and heard that sermon on "Absenteeism" ye would have been ashamed of yerself fur not bein' there.—New York Weekly.

Reassured.—Dr. Piller (about to leave for a trip South)—I really need the rest, but I am worried at the idea of being away for several weeks. Suppose some of my patients should die while I was away? Friend (reassuringly)—Oh, Doctor! I'm sure there's no danger of that.—Puck.

Supreme Moment in a Launch.

That a launch is a matter of mathematics, as well as of great skill and labor, is shown by the fact that the man of science who has the matter in charge always makes a set of calculations showing the strain on the ship and its precise condition at practically every foot of the journey down the ways. If a boat should get on the way, or if it should take an unusual length of time to knock out the keel-blocks, or if any one of half-a-dozen things should cause serious delay, the scientific man knows just how long he can wait, and just how far the limit of safety extends.

There is always one supreme moment in a launch, and it is at a time that es-

ONE BETTER MADE

MAIL POUCH TOBACCO

No Chemicals
PUREST and BEST
No Nerves Quaking
No Heart Palpitating
No Dyspeptic Aching
ANTI-NEUROSE
ANTI-DYSPEPTIC

capac the average spectator. It is when the vessel gets fairly well into the water. This is when an important factor known as the "moment of buoyancy" comes into play. If you can imagine a vessel sliding down an incline without any water into which to drop, you can see that the vessel would tip down suddenly at the end which has left the ways, and would rise at the end still on the incline. But really, in successful launches, the stern of the vessel is gradually lifted up by the water, and this throws the weight forward on that part of the ship still resting on the ways. The force of the water is called the "moment of buoyancy," and the natural tendency of the ship to drop to the bottom of the stream is called the "moment of weight." Now the moment of buoyancy must always be greater than the moment of weight; for if it were not, the vessel would tip down or injure the plates or keel of the ship. When the great English battleship Ramillies was launched this did really happen; and so great was the strain near the bow that parts of the cradle were actually pushed right into the bottom of the vessel. It is this danger of disaster that causes the scientific launcher to make the most careful calculations as to the conditions surrounding the ship at every foot of her journey into the water.—Franklin Matthews in St. Nicholas.

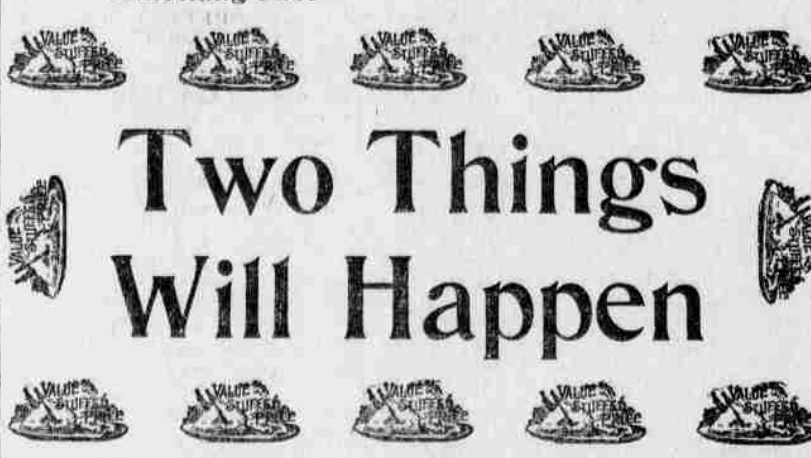

F. M. BROWN & CO.

Grand Central Shopping Emporium.

F. M. BROWN.

D. S. GAMBLE.

When you pay the rates this paper charges for advertising you don't use language to mean something else.

Two Things Will Happen

cold weather and the holidays! This business is keyed up to meet these two happenings. There is to be a fierce scramble for the dollars to be spent. The English language, with a little of all other languages will evidently be saddled, bridled and spurred to catch these fleeing dollars.

But Depend Upon This

This store's character for not handling TRASH will be sustained. To people who know what they want, if it isn't as represented, BRING IT BACK!

That is our business standard and it's as plain as a pike staff.

The Centre of the

Silk and Dress Goods Trade between New York and Boston.

Here is a specimen of our Silk Service—

24-inch Rich Gros Grain, 79c yard.

Rich Faile Francaise, heavy corded, 49c yard.

colored—every thread a silk thread, An 89c yard value.

More kinds of Fancy Silks than you would take the time to look through, but so beautiful, and the price so low you would choose the first you came to.

Dress Fabrics

20 Pieces Imported Silk Wool Novelty Dress Goods a 75c yd value for 50c yd.

10 pcs Imported All Wool superfine TWILL, 79c yd value for 49c yd. India

Astrakahns and Cloakings, Im-

F. M. BROWN & CO.

All Linen, Hemstitched Towels, Huck and Damask 25c

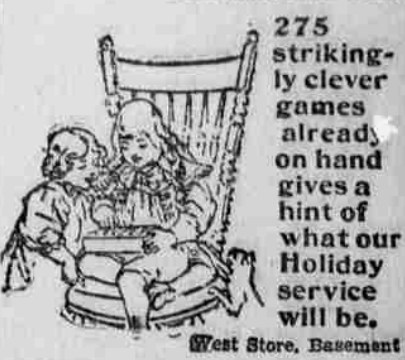

Bleached Table Damask
60-in. wide, 60 cents
64-in. wide, 65c
68-in. wide, 70c
Fringed Sets,
2 1/2 yd. long $1.50
3 yds. long $2.50

Large Square Tables, 2 1/2 wide and 3 and 3 1/2 yd. long,
3/4 to 3/8 Napkins to match.
Tray Cloths, Doyles, Squares, etc.
A rich choice of Batesburg Broad works.
East Store, Main Floor

Without Feet and with Night Drawers, made of excellent Canton Flannel.

A flannel that absorbs the exhalations of the body and that keeps the body cool and the skin. The freedom from anxiety for the child's health is worth the cost.
49c up.
West Store, Main Floor

275 strikingly clever games already on hand gives a hint of what our Holiday service will be.
West Store, Basement

350 Scarce Jackets,

in the roughest of wearable Rough Boucles, Fancy Bourettes, Astrakahns, blacks, browns and blues. We will not quote the low prices for this offer because they are better than the price comparison.

If low prices for the best garments, fur and fabric will induce buyers to buy, we believe we have the garments.

Just think of it, the stocks of seven cloak manufacturers who failed last week, begging for buyers. Do you wonder at our low prices?

Mannish Millinery,

that is what the up-to-date woman's hat is, but not even a prude can say it isn't stylish, and not only stylish but very becoming.

Half the doctors would find themselves without patients if the ladies generally would wear this up-to-date hat.

A display of fine Theatre, Evening and Reception Hats and Walking Hats and lot of the newest Alpine and Sailors.

West Store, Second Floor

Every well dressed woman knows that the

Trefousse Glove

is the best Glove made. In this statement we don't except well dressed women in any part of the world. We have other makes of Gloves, of course!

Some of the very strongest minded women may prefer our celebrated $1.50 kid glove. Ninety nine times out of a hundred this glove suits. It's a neat fitting, long wearing, dressy glove.
West Store, Main Floor

The P. D. Corset

Isn't an experiment—it's a beauty health brace and the ease and flexibility it gives to every motion of a delicate waist, win yeasers. It's the dressmaker's ideal, and to build a gown about its fine proportions is a piece of art.

We have just imported a superior Corset we sell for with any 18 or 24 $2.00 Corset.

Lovely PERSIAN RIBBONS!

Taffeta and Chameleon Taffeta from 3 to 11 inch wide. Taffeta and Surah Ribbons from 1 1/2 to 10 inch wide. The Ribbon Supply Center of New Haven.

F. M. BROWN & CO.

Cold Wave

Free Pipe, Zinc and Elbow with Range before November 1st.

Our Easy Payment Plan gives you all the comforts now.

If you want the new fashions in Carpets, Furniture, etc., we have them at least cost.

P. J. KELLY & CO.,

Grand Ave., Church street.

Chatfield

Paper Co. PAPER,

208, 300, 302 Book, News, Fiao

State Street. TWINES.

BROWN & BERGER,

ARCHITECTS,

87 Church Street.

NEW Crop Teas.

Fine Oolong Tea, 35 cts per pound, 3 lbs for $1.00.
Fine Japan Tea 35 cts per lb, 3 pounds for $1.00.
Fine English Breakfast Tea, 35 cts per pound, 3 lbs for $1.00.
Fine Gunpowder Tea, 35 cts lb, 3 pounds for $1.00.

Goodwin's Tea & Coffee Store,

344 State Street,

Yale National Bank Building.

For Over Twenty-six Years

HAS been known as an EXPERT in the making of Artificial Teeth, and has concluded to make a specialty of this branch of his business. Extracting teeth without pain and replacing with artificial teeth at prices ranging from five to one hundred dollars. Dr. Gidney wishes to call special attention to his Ten Dollar sets. These Teeth are made especially for Dr. Gidney from select material, really making a first-class set of teeth made up by an experienced dentist at a price within the reach of all.

DR. GIDNEY'S DENTAL ROOMS,

707 Chapel St., 6 doors below Orange St.

Office Hours: 9 to 12 a. m., 1 to 5 p. m., 7 to 8 (evening).